

Education

Reston is served by Fairfax County Public Schools (FCPS), one of the largest school systems in the nation. Praised at both the regional and national levels, FCPS offer top-quality instructional programs, a full complement of support services, and a comprehensive extracurricular program for its students.

FCPS earned its outstanding reputation by maintaining its commitment to teaching students of all abilities and backgrounds. Programs for gifted and talented students are available at all grade levels. Special education programs for children with special needs are among the best in the country. English as a second language classes are provided in more than 100 languages and dialects. Extensive vocational programs are available at the high school level.

Other services offered are child care and after-school recreation programs, health screening, nursing services, daily bus transportation, food service, and adult education classes.

Year after year, FCPS students perform better than their Northern Virginia peers in all measures of academic achievement. They score significantly higher than state and national averages on standardized achievement tests administered in reading, math, science, language arts and social studies.

Another gauge of achievement is the Scholastic Assessment Test (SAT). Fairfax County students average 38 points above the national average on the verbal portion, and 45 points higher on the math portion of the exam.

Nearly all FCPS students go on to some form of higher education after they graduate. Over 90 percent of the 1996 graduates are attending post-secondary institutions with 70 percent going on to four-year colleges and universities.

The Arts

The arts have always been an integral part of the Reston lifestyle, with many groups and organizations responsible for the success of the arts programs and performances. Local businesses, government, educators and individuals support the arts in many ways. From volunteer work to fund-raising to major donations for facilities, there is an abundant eagerness to encourage the visual, performing and fine arts.

The following is an overview of some of the programs available in Reston.

The Greater Reston Arts Center (GRACE)

(703) 471-9242

The Greater Reston Arts Center is a privately supported, non-profit arts organization with nearly 5000 members, committed to expanding the public's understanding, knowledge, and appreciation of contemporary visual arts through exhibitions, publications, education and special programs. The Center also maintains a small shop at One Fountain Square in Reston Town Center which has well-designed and finely crafted items for sale.

The Reston Community Players

(703) 476-1111

The Reston Community Players has brought many exciting theatrical experiences to the public. Four to five productions are offered each year and include classic and original plays, as well as popular musicals, dramas, mysteries, and comedies. Hugely popular and often standing-room only, the performances are held at the Reston Community Center and are designed to appeal to all ages.

Reston Chorale

(703) 742-9194

The Reston Chorale is an acclaimed, mixed-voice chorus of more than 100 people. The group performs choral music from the Renaissance to the present in several major concerts each year.

The League of Reston Artists & Photographers

(703) 450-0396

This membership organization is a collection of artists and friends involved in promoting recognition and the sale of area artists' work. Among its ongoing activities are the continuing exhibits in Reston's businesses, an indoor sketch group, and sponsorship of an annual juried, multi-media art show.

The Reston Art Gallery

(703) 481-8156

The Reston Art Gallery offers exhibit space for juried artists and various community arts groups as well as art classes, a weekly cable TV program, and poetry readings.

Fairfax West Music Fellowship

(703) 759-9051

The Fairfax West Music Fellowship is an organization of professional music teachers established to provide performance opportunities for students in formal settings.

Arts Alliance of Reston

(703) 742-9142

The Arts Alliance of Reston is a not-for-profit visual and performing arts group providing shared support and information, and promoting arts as a community presence.

Wolf Trap Farm Park For The Performing Arts

(703) 255-1800

Wolf Trap is America's only national park dedicated to the performing arts, and is located just ten minutes from Reston. The park provides a year-round roster of performances for every age and taste and is a very popular spot to enjoy the best in music, dance, opera, theater, and ballet from around the world. Also enjoyed is The Wolf Trap Opera Company which is one of the country's outstanding, career-entry programs for young singers.

The Arts

Reston Town Center
1-800-368-TOWN

Reston Town Center is a natural gathering place that is an ideal environment for art activities, art galleries, and sculpture. During the annual Northern Virginia Fine Arts Festival, Reston Town Center showcases more than 100 artists from around the U.S. The year-round list of activities includes live concerts, choral performances, art demonstrations, and children's art activities.

Outdoor sculpture has been installed each year for the cultural enrichment of visitors and now includes several large and small pieces in addition to the popular Mercury Fountain.

Galleries and art oriented shops include: the Greater Reston Arts Center, Paradise Wild, ArtInsights, and Appalachian Spring.

WITHIN THE AREA

Within close proximity to Reston are an almost unlimited supply of world-acclaimed museums, galleries and theaters dedicated to the enrichment of the cultural experience for residents and visitors alike.
